

We, the class of 1979, wish to thank Mrs. Gisela Lichtenberger who has been an inspiration to us all.

The dedication of our yearbook is but a small way to repay her for the many hours of work, planning and advice that she has devoted to our class. Her original ideas and spirit have guided us through four years that have ended far too quickly.

Her sense of humor and determination to teach have been instrumental in our many successful accomplishments. Not only has she been known to push us during times of inertia but also to commend our achievements. Thanks to her encouragement and criticism, we have matured.

In constant touch with us and our activities, she has displayed understanding and patience. It is with tremendous pride and respect that we dedicate this yearbook to

MRS. GISELA LICHTENBERGER

WE CAN'T LEAVE WITHOUT SAYING . . .

Our Class was the GREATEST EVER. Now, many classes say this of themselves, but few can prove it. We can . . .

Proof number one: All the underclassmen have, at one time or another, agreed that we were the best. Example: When we were freshmen we declared that our class would put any class before us to shame; when we were sophomores, we predicted that not only would we be greater than any class before us but also any after us; and by the time we were juniors, there was no doubt in our minds that we were the best. Conclusion: Any class that has been given such approval by underclassmen had to be terrific. Proof number two: Our class was multi-talented. Being a modest class, we never bragged how we always had fine and conscientious leaders who gave generously of their time, both in class and non-class related areas. Also, because of our many excellent scholars, both recognized and unrecognized, our class was quite competitive. Furthermore, the number of athletes that our class produced was astonishing — and it was our athletes that led many of the teams to victory.

For stubborn people who still doubt that we were the greatest class ever to HIT the high school, here is physical proof: Litchfield High had to be rebuilt (or rather, “renovated”) just a year after we arrived.

Mentioning the renovation brings to mind the fact that our class was one of the fortunate few to be chosen to test the extremes that a human body can possibly bear. For example, we demonstrated that bulldozers, roaring gun-ho outside a classroom window, have no adverse affects on a student trying to concentrate. In fact, some students, after several months, loudly voiced the opinion that the din made studying more pleasant. Another stage of this testing period helped us to recognize and distinguish different, yet similar sounds. We learned that “beep-beep-beep”, commonly thought to be a fire alarm, is, in reality, the safety device of a truck backing up. Indeed, this experiment on our class helped us to become calm and reasonable individuals. Some people see this as the effect of “shock”, but what do they know?

After the renovation period had run its course, we embarked on another series of experiments, again to test the durability of the human body. As a result of this second era in our high school career, shrill, sudden noises, like the mod bell, have never since startled us. We also became immune to cold. This last statement is in reference to the “Refrigerator-Study Experiment”. After several weeks of standing in shorts and short sleeved shirts in a gymnasium on a winter’s morning or sitting in a poorly heated classroom for forty-five minutes at a stretch, we ceased to notice the cold (we were too numb). One other thing that we learned at this time was: always carry a watch . . . never, never trust a school clock. (Somebody was always trying to make us believe that it was 5 o’clock or some other crazy hour when we had just begun our first class).

Nonetheless, whatever Litchfield High School had or did not have as a facility, it did not lack in the quality of its teachers. We can be proud to remember that not only did we have excellent educators but also teachers who were friendly and concerned with the individual student — many became personal friends.

Of course, high school offered personal challenges which we had to face by ourselves. Papers for English classes, strange computations from the (infinite) realm of mathematics and, most feared of all, history term papers managed to find us no matter where we hid. To take our minds away from these matters, there were other diversions like: chemistry experiments, accounting sets, shorthand tests, and in our spare time, College Boards. Yet, once our suffering was over, it was nice to discover that we had, in fact, learned something!

Unless we recall our class activities together, we will not fully remember ourselves as we were. Many of our ventures centered on raising money for the yearbook, but more importantly, GRADUATION. There was one event when money-raising wasn't the goal. Instead, in our freshmen year, our objective was to terrorize Riverside Amusement Park. Unfortunately, the Riverside personnel found out that we were coming and closed down the giant roller-coaster before we got there. However, we did test the durability of their other rides (or they tested us) and cleaned out the taco and hamburger stands.

Bake sales, having become obsolete, we switched to the new-old standby of grinder sales. This provided a good opportunity to illustrate the mental agility of our class. At one such sale, we used felt-tipped pens to write the name of the grinder's victim on slips of paper. These, we placed between the plastic wrap and the grinder roll . . . So what if the ink blurred and ran and we couldn't read the names, at least we didn't make the same mistake twice!

Other Class of 1979 money-raising escapades included organizing a "Coffee House", injuring the egos of the other classes by winning the prize for selling the most tickets to Sports Breakfasts, sponsoring the Paul Winter Consort, selling donuts, and arranging a tag sale. One annual event was looked forward to by the whole school — our St. Patrick's Day Smorgasbord. We are proud to report that we had the fewest cases of food poisoning of any other class before us. Lastly, we cannot forget (but maybe we should) our Junior Class Talent show. Thanks to a few dedicated classmates and teachers, we managed to pull it off. Actually, it didn't turn out so badly but it certainly was "A Close Encounter of the Weird Kind"!

At least two people who were with us our senior year will never be the same, poor kids. We hope that the world will treat our AFSers, Sylvie and James, kindly after what they have been through. We wish them the best of luck and hope that they are able to recover their "accents".

Did you ever stop to think how this yearbook is a physical representation of the end of one stage in our lives and the beginning of another? What we did in high school affects our lives in whatever we do. It is hard to leave for good after being in the habit of coming for so many years. Some of us have been with the same group of classmates since we started school, and some of us joined the class along the way. We were fortunate in the friends we had among underclassmen and "overclassmen" (students who graduated before us) and among our teachers. This, too, makes it difficult to leave.

This yearbook can only lightly touch upon all of the experiences that we had together and with our classmates who moved away. While reminiscing, we ought to remember the bad times and learn from them but also recall the good times and laugh.

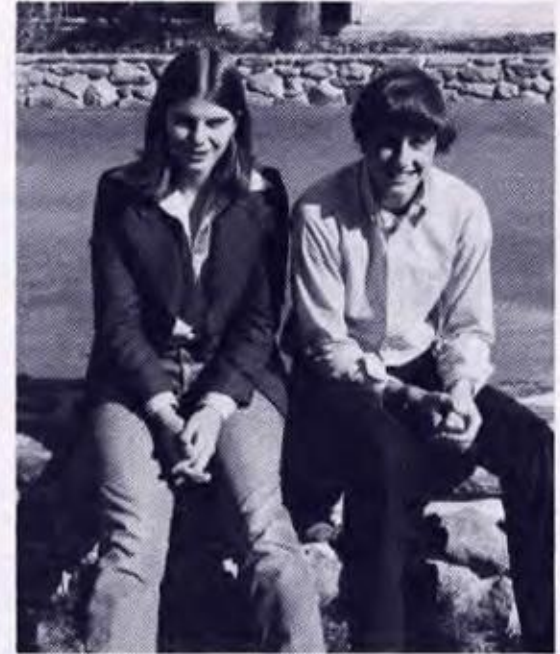

. . . THANK YOU AND GOODBYE.

LINDA JEAN HARNICAR

"We need to learn to be our own critics. A poet has a vision, when he is in another world. He comes back from that world and he tries to tell his vision. He may not get the actual thing into his poem at all, or, if he is an artist, into his picture. But when he reads his poem, every line in it reminds him of something in his vision, and he lives the vision over again as he reads."

IN THE DESERT

In the desert
I saw a creature, naked, bestial,
Who, squatting upon the ground,
Held his heart in his hands,
And ate of it.
I said, "Is it good, friend?"
"It is bitter-bitter," he answered,
"But I like it
Because it is bitter,
And because it is my heart—

Especially special people thru-out 13 years of school: Mom, Dad, Linda, Tim... Leslie R... Lynn R., Barb C., Barb S... also Veronica H., Erin M....

This book does not mean the end of High School to me. It signifies the end of 18 yrs. of life in Litchfield with a certain group of people - my class. We played dodge-ball, slid down a favorite slide using waxed paper, played hopscotch, jumprope, & skinned our knees, played with marbles and yo-yos. No recess in the Jr. High was shocking at first. The High School seemed so big; We soon adjusted. We became Seniors. Classmates left, new ones came, some were always around.

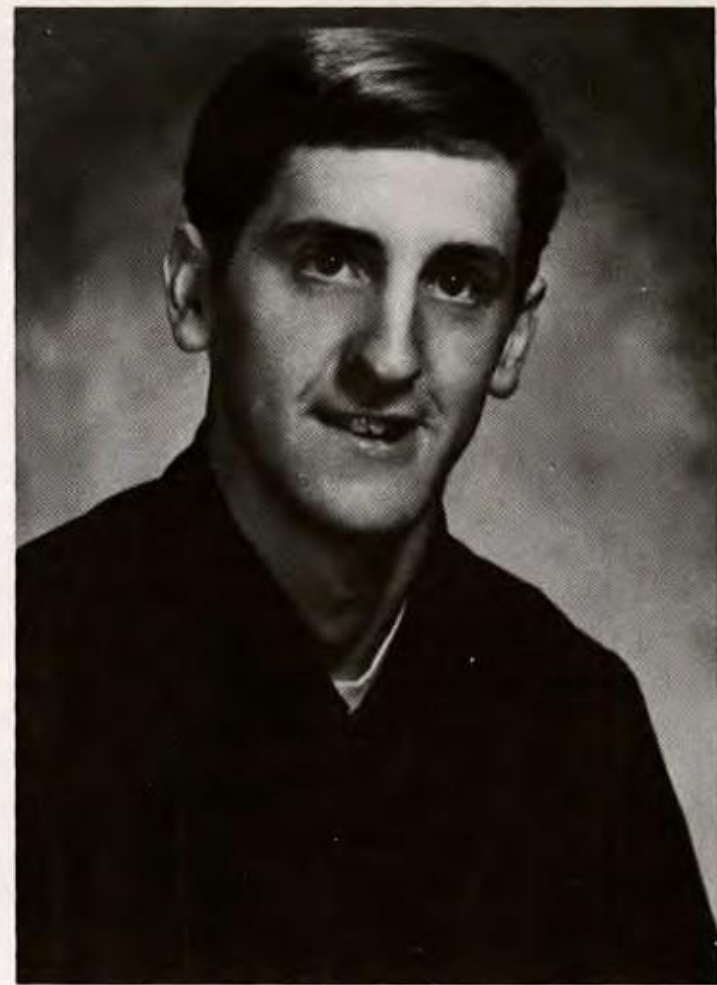

THANKS, CLASSMATES..

Vous êtes maintenant le meilleur de ma vie,
 O mes jours qui passez;
 Vous êtes ma jeunesse et ma chère folie,
 Vous êtes si pressés!

Avoir quinze ans, rêver dans l'herbe haute et chaude
 Où le soleil s'ébat,
 Sans se lever pour voir si le bel Amour rôde,
 Si l'on entend ses pas!

Croire qu'on ne peut pas épuiser sa jeunesse,
 Rire sur les chemins,
 S'arrêter pour peser l'infini et l'ivresse,
 Baiser ses propres mains

Je pense à vous, passé, loisirs, douces années,
 Main faible qui jouait,
 Imagination qui fut tant étonnée,
 Et pleine de souhaits.

The image is a black and white abstract graphic design. It features several sets of concentric circles of varying sizes. One large set of circles occupies the bottom half of the page, with the word "SPORTS" written in a bold, sans-serif font across its upper portion. Another set of circles is in the top left corner. In the upper right, there are three smaller, overlapping sets of circles. The overall effect is a dynamic, geometric composition.
